Maureen A. Lodoen

Maureen focuses her practice on resolving construction and real estate disputes for developers, property owners, business owners, general contractors, subcontractors, architects, builders, sureties, landlords, and tenants.

Prior to joining Larkin Hoffman, Maureen completed a judicial clerkship with the Honorable Carol Hooten at the Minnesota Court of Appeals. While in law school, Maureen worked as a law clerk for Larkin Hoffman, a judicial extern at the Minnesota Court of Appeals, and a research assistant. Maureen was also the editor-in-chief for the University of St. Thomas Law Journal.

Before law school, Maureen worked as a marketing and communications professional for an accounting firm and local nonprofits. Outside of practicing law, Maureen enjoys reading, cooking, golfing, at-home workouts, everything Irish, and scoping out new Twin Cities restaurants.
